Introduction

This hearing dealt with an application by the landlord for an order of possession due to unpaid rent, a monetary order to recover rental arrears and inclusive of recovery of the filing fee associated with this application, and an order to retain the security deposit in partial satisfaction of the monetary claim. Despite having been personally served with the application for dispute resolution and notice of hearing on February 18, 2009, the tenant did not participate in the conference call hearing. As of today's date, the tenant still resides in the rental unit.

Issue(s) to be Decided

Is the notice to end tenancy valid?

Is the landlord entitled to an order of possession?

Is the landlord entitled to the monetary amounts claimed?

Background and Evidence

The tenancy began on November 01, 2008. Rent in the amount of $750 is payable in advance on the first day of each month. At the outset of the tenancy, the landlord collected a security deposit from the tenant in the amount of $375. The tenant failed to pay rent in the month of February 2009, and on February 03, 2009 the landlord served the tenant with a notice to end tenancy for non-payment of rent. The tenant further failed to pay rent for the months of March and April 2009.

The landlord is claiming rent for February, March and April 2009 in the amount of $2250 (750 X 3), plus $75 late fees (25 X 3) for a total claim of $2325.

The landlord's testimony is that only if the tenant moves out by the 13th of April there may be scope to again rent it for April 15, 2009 although there is currently no applicants in waiting; however, as of today's date, the tenant has not indicated an intent to vacate the rental unit. The landlord seeks an order of possession effective 2 days from service upon the tenant.

Analysis

Based on the landlord's testimony I find that the tenant was served with a notice to end tenancy for non-payment of rent and I find the notice to be valid. The tenant has not paid the outstanding rent and has not applied for dispute resolution to dispute the notice and is therefore conclusively presumed to have accepted that the tenancy ended on the effective date of the notice.

Based on the above facts I find that the landlord is entitled to an order of possession.

As for the monetary order, I find that the landlord has established a claim for $2325 in unpaid rent. The landlord is also entitled to recovery of the $50 filing fee, for a total entitlement claim of $2375.

Conclusion

I grant an order of possession to the landlord. The tenant must be served with this order of possession. Should the tenant fail to comply with the order, the order may be filed in the Supreme Court of British Columbia and enforced as an order of that Court.

I order that the landlord retain the deposit and interest of $375.94 in partial satisfaction of the claim and I grant the landlord an order under section 67 for the balance due of $1999.06. This order may be filed in the Small Claims Court and enforced as an order of that Court.
