DECISION

Dispute Codes:

CNL

Introduction

This hearing dealt with an application by the tenant for an order to set aside a notice to end tenancy for landlord's use of property. Both parties attended the hearing and had opportunity to be heard.

Issue to be Decided

Did the landlord serve the tenant with a valid notice to end tenancy? Does the landlord intend to occupy the rental unit?

Background and Evidence

The tenancy began about eight years ago. The monthly rent is $500.00 payable on the first of each month.

On June 28, 2013, the landlord served the tenant with a notice to end tenancy for landlord's use of property. The notice consisted of two pages in the approved format. However, the landlord failed to check mark the reason for the notice to end tenancy. The tenant disputed the notice in a timely manner.

Shortly after the landlord, upon realizing his error served the tenant with a second notice for the same reason, on July 29, 2013. The tenant disputed this notice and the hearing is set for September 18, 2013.

Analysis:

Section 52 of the Residential Tenancy Act provides for the form and content of a notice to end tenancy and states as follows:

Form and content of notice to end tenancy

52 In order to be effective, a notice to end a tenancy must be in writing and must

- (a) be signed and dated by the landlord or tenant giving the notice,
- (b) give the address of the rental unit,
- (c) state the effective date of the notice,
- (d) except for a notice under section 45 (1) or (2) [tenant's notice], state the grounds for ending the tenancy, and
- (e) when given by a landlord, be in the approved form.

Upon review of the notice to end tenancy I find that the grounds for ending the tenancy are not stated in the notice to end tenancy. Therefore I find that it is not a valid notice and accordingly, I order that the notice be set aside and of no force or effect. As a result, the tenancy will continue.

Conclusion

The notice to end tenancy is set aside and the tenancy will continue.

This decision is made on authority delegated to me by the Director of the Residential Tenancy Branch under Section 9.1(1) of the Residential Tenancy Act.
