DECISION

Dispute Codes: OPC

Introduction

This hearing dealt with an application by the landlord pursuant to the Residential Tenancy Act. The landlord applied for an order of possession pursuant to a one month notice to end tenancy for cause.

The landlord testified that she served the tenant with the notice of hearing and evidence package by registered mail on October 17, 2019. The landlord provided a tracking number. Despite having been served a notice of hearing by the landlord, the tenant did not attend the hearing. The landlord attended the hearing and was given full opportunity to present evidence and make submissions.

Issues to be decided

Is the landlord entitled to an order of possession?

Background and Evidence

The tenancy started in August 2018. The monthly rent is $700.00. There is no written tenancy agreement.

The landlord testified that she received multiple complaints of noise disturbances, drug use and partying which involved the police. On September 21, 2019, the landlord served the tenant with a notice to end tenancy for cause with an effective date of October 31, 2019.

The tenant did not dispute the notice. The landlord has applied for an order of possession effective two days after service on the tenant.

Analysis

Based on the undisputed testimony and documentary evidence of the landlord, I find that the tenant is deemed to have received the notice to end tenancy, on September 24, 2019 and did not make application, pursuant to Section 47 to set aside the notice to end a residential tenancy, and the time to do so has expired.

In these situations, the Residential Tenancy Act provides that the tenant has been deemed to have accepted the end of the tenancy on the date set out in the Notice. Pursuant to section 55(2) I am issuing a formal order of possession effective two days after service on the tenant. The Order may be filed in the Supreme Court for enforcement.

Conclusion

I grant the landlord an order of possession effective two days after service on the tenant.

This decision is made on authority delegated to me by the Director of the Residential Tenancy Branch under Section 9.1(1) of the Residential Tenancy Act.
